2. Children with Cancer Go Back to School Conference

On Tuesday, November 6, the Department of Pediatric Oncology presents the Children with Cancer Go Back to School Conference at the Wang Center. This is a FREE, one-day conference for health care professionals and educators to educate participants regarding childhood cancer, effects of treatment, preparation for school re-entry, emerging technology and innovative distance learning for students with cancer.

Our special guest speaker will be, Yankees own, Ray Negrón. Ray is the author of the children's book The Boy of Steel: A Baseball Dream Come True. When Ray was a teenager, he was caught spraying graffiti on the side of Yankee Stadium, and was put to work by Yankees owner George Steinbrenner. Negrón became a Yankee batboy, played minor league ball, and then went to work for the Yankees and the Cleveland Indians. He is now a special adviser to Steinbrenner.

For more information on this free conference, call 631-444-7521.

8. EH&S to Host Seminar on Federal Chemical Security Requirements. Date: 10/25/07, 8:30 to 11 AM, Place: Wang Center 301

The NYS Office of Homeland Security and the US Dept. of Homeland Security's Chemical Security Division will review the compliance obligations under new federal security regulations, "Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards", issued on April 9, 2007. These regulations will identify, assess and ensure effective security at chemical facilities. This rule will apply to Stony Brook University and other facilities that manufacture, use, store or distribute any of about 350 listed chemicals in quantities above chemical-specific threshold levels. The proposed list of chemicals is available on line at:

http://www.dhs.gov/xprevprot/programs/gc_1169501486179.shtm.

EH&S is developing a program to comply with these requirements. This free seminar is open to all faculty, staff and other private sector chemical stakeholders.

Registration is required and is available at:

Speaker: Ming C. Lin, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill,

Title: Bring Images to Life: Challenges and Recent Advances

Time: Friday, October 12, 2007, 2:15 pm

Location: Computer Science 2311

Title: Bring Images to Life: Challenges and Recent Advances

Short Abstract and Biography: In this talk, I will highlight some of our recent efforts on modeling realistic motion of virtual characters and performing predictive simulations of physical phenomena, by combining distinct techniques to create new approaches for these fundamental problems in computer graphics. I will also demonstrate the results on several interactive applications.

Ming C. Lin is currently Beverly Long Distinguished Professor of Computer Science at the University of North Carolina (UNC), Chapel Hill. She obtained her B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science in 1988, 1991, and 1993 respectively from the University of California, Berkeley.

3. SAC Ballroom B - Blood Drive Today and tomorrow

There is no substitute for human blood. One in three people will need blood during their lives. Blood lasts only 42 days. Your donation NOW is critically important.

Close to 2,000 men, women and children in our community, including cancer, transplant and surgery patients, trauma victims, newborn babies, and many others need blood transfusions each day.

This year, Stony Brook University is looking to achieve a 2,000 pint goal. Help us achieve our goal.

Give blood Monday, October 8th from 11am to 8pm in SAC Ballroom B.

And on Tuesday, October 9th in the Bi Level of the Stony Brook Union from 11am to 8pm.

4. Type O Positive and Negative Blood Donors are Urgently Needed!

According to LI Blood Services, there is an especially short supply of type O positive and type O negative blood inventory. SBUMC is reflecting this shortage and strongly encourages donations asap. When a disaster/emergency occurs, it is blood on the shelf that is desperately needed; new donations require days to be tested before becoming available. When blood is donated at Stony Brook, it is given directly to a patient in need at the hospital. To give blood, donors must be between 17 and 75, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. Even people on blood pressure & cholesterol medication with conditions under control and insulin-taking diabetics can give blood.

For more information, call Jennifer Peace at 444-7586; or to make an appointment call 631-444-DONATE. Registered nurses are hand to assist donors. Parking is validated.

5. Stony Brook Cares

The Stony Brook Cares Campaign is the University's annual fundraising drive that collects and distributes urgently needed contributions to hundreds of charitable organizations, giving vital aid and support to people in need.

Thanks to your prior generous support, Stony Brook Cares has achieved amazing results right here in our community, across the nation, and around the world.

Ambulances purchased by University Hospital Auxiliary

Stony Brook Child Care Services provides a safe, nurturing environment for children of working parents

A healthy start in life for babies and children

Support services so seniors can live independently

Nourishing meals were supplied to families in need (CARE)

Conserving natural environments

This year's campaign runs through October 31. Your donation goes directly to the charity of your choice.

Contact your area captain or, to find out more information, call 444-1785.

The campaign is managed by SEFA/United Way.

6. Film: 1 Litre Of Tears

The Japan Center at Stony Brook presents, Co-Sponsored by Charles B. Wang Center One day on her way to school, middle school student Aya (Asae Onishi) suddenly falls to the ground. The doctor diagnoses her with spinocerebellar degeneration, a rare and incurable neurological disease. Entering high school, Aya's condition continues to worsen as physical movements become more difficult. Forced to attend a special boarding school, she nonetheless finds hope and happiness through the support of her new friends and family. Working hard, she completes her high school education and bravely begins a new stage in her life, despite her weak health and continuous trips to the hospital. Aya never gives up, living each day of her life to the fullest until the very end.
