

Colleagues,

Because few Stony Brook students commute from New York City regularly, only a very small number appear to have been prevented from getting to campus for exams because of the NYC transit strike. Still, there may well be some who have legitimately been unable to make an exam. Instructors are asked to weigh any strike-related requests for make-up exams carefully on a case-by-case basis.

Thank you.

- Robert McGrath, Provost & Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs