Stony Brook University and ING invite you to attend a Lunch Time Learning Workshop.

Is the current status of the stock market making you feel like you're caught in the "perfect storm?". Your first reaction may be to jump ship; sell the assets that may have experienced losses and take refuge in "safer" assets.

"Staying the Course" can provide you with information and options to help you stay focused and see what alternatives are available to help you continue to reach your retirement objectives.
