ESS PARKING LOT AND CENTER DRIVE CLOSED MARCH 1 TO MID-MAY

The northern section of the Y Parking Lot behind ESS building and the portion of Center Drive in the vicinity of the Light Engineering building will be closed from the end of work on Friday, March 1 until mid-May while work is carried out on the installation of new chilled water lines. The existing 30" lines in that area failed under pressure tests last December and have developed a number of leaks. Redesigned in January, a contract was awarded in February with the contractor scheduled to begin work on March 4.

That portion of the Bi-Sector Road between the access drive to Physics-Math parking lot and Center Drive also will be closed for two weeks (March 4-18) while new pipe is installed under this roadway.

This work is essential and cannot be delayed to a more convenient time, according to Assistant Executive Vice President R.W. Siegel, who said, "Without this critical replacement we will not be able to provide air conditioning to the central campus, with consequent serious effects on many academic programs and on working conditions. The system to provide chilled water for this purpose is nearly complete, but will be useless unless this essential link in the delivery system is ready in time."

He noted that there are a number of contracts requiring work in this area, all of which will be delayed unless this installation is carried out as soon as possible. Some of the other contracts involved, which would be affected by a delay of this project, are the construction of a new and safer road to the ESS loading area, the rebuilding of the entire parking lot on both sides of the road and the Physics-Math Lot both scheduled for May. "It will also determine the start of work on the South Loop heating system, serving the residential colleges along that line. The contract for that project, already on a tight schedule, calls for the closing of the Loop Road from the Service Area past the intersection of the Bi-Sector, opposite Kelly Quad, sometime late in March. At that time, the Bi-Sector Road will be used as a detour route," Mr. Siegel said.

SB STUDENTS ARE 97% NEW YORKERS Many From Suffolk

Ninety-seven percent of the 7,979 undergraduate students enrolled at Stony Brook for the current academic year are residents of New York State. Close to 60 percent of them are from Nassau and Suffolk Counties, and over 90 percent are from the New York metropolitan area.

According to statistics reported by the University's Office of Long Range Planning, 4,779 undergraduates from the bi-county Long Island area are currently enrolled at Stony Brook, 2,933 of them from Suffolk County.

Some 7,400 students come from the nine-county metropolitan New York area (Nassau-Suffolk, Rockland-Westchester and New York City) constituting 92.7 percent of the undergraduate population of Stony Brook. 72.7 percent come from Nassau, Suffolk and Queens Counties, more than one-third are from Suffolk County.

"Although Stony Brook, as one of the four State University Centers in New York State, has educational responsibilities extending beyond the metropolitan region, we are continuing to maintain a high degree of local representation in our undergraduate body," President John S. Toll said in commenting on the report.

The following table lists the numbers and percentages of Stony Brook undergraduates and their county of residence:

	Number	Percent
Suffolk	2,933	36.8
Nassau	1,846	23.1
Long Island Total	4,779	59.9
Bronx	304	3.8
Brooklyn	670	8.4
Manhattan	242	3.0
Queens	1,035	12.9
Richmond	78	0.9
New York City Total	2,329	29.7
Rockland	75	0.9
Westchester	217	2.7

Students from other New York State counties constitute 4.3 percent of the undergraduate body or 341 students.

Stony Brook students coming from other parts of the United States total 167 or 2.1 percent. Seventy-one students or less than one percent of the undergraduates (0.8 percent) come from outside the United States.

Women Writers!

Any women interested in contributing articles (both fiction and non-fiction), poetry, or personal essays to the NEW WOMEN'S JOURNAL, a publication of Stony Brook's Women's Center, may leave their work at the Women's Center (Room 062, SB Union), or contact Fran Stillerman at 6-3816. All articles must be typewritten and double-spaced, and the deadline for submission of material is Tuesday, March 12. All women at Stony Brook - students, faculty and staff members - are invited to contribute their work to this publication.

DR. HARRY SOROFF APPOINTED FIRST CHAIRMAN OF SURGERY

Dr. Harry S. Soroff, a nationally recognized leader in both cardio-vascular surgery and the treatment of burns, has been appointed first Chairman of the Department of Surgery in the Medical School of the Health Sciences Center.

In announcing Dr. Soroff's appointment, President John S. Toll said, "The University is most fortunate to have acquired such an outstanding surgeon of unusual competence and breadth as the first leader of our Department of Surgery."

Dr. Soroff, formerly Professor of Surgery at Tufts University School of Medicine and Director of Tufts Surgical Service at Boston City Hospital, will assume his duties as chairman immediately. The Department of Surgery, one of seven major departments in the School of Medicine, is responsible for general surgery and all of the surgical specialties until such time as specific departments within these specialties are developed.

In commenting on Dr. Soroff's appointment, Dr. Marvin Kushner, Dean of the School of Medicine, said, "The School considers itself fortunate to have received the services of such an eminent surgeon and surgical investigator. Individuals who have worked with him have been particularly impressed with his gentleness and kindness with patients."

Dr. Soroff, 48, was part of the team of cardio-vascular surgeons that made the first major breakthrough in developing artificial heart valves to be put into the aorta of human hearts. He also pioneered a new kind of "team," working with an engineer, William Birtwell, to find ways of helping the ailing heart stay alive.

One important result of their study of assisted circulation for the ailing heart from the point of view of both physiology and engineering has been the utilization of a concept called counter-pulsation. Developed by Dr. Soroff and Mr. Birtwell, this is a mechanism of introducing energy into the cardio-vascular system, used when a patient is in shock.

Another of Dr. Soroff's major research interests has been in the field of the body's chemical response to injury, particularly burns, and nutritional factors in the healing of wounds. During the Korean War, Dr. Soroff worked as chief of an Army burn research unit at Brooke Army Medical Center in Texas.

He volunteered an extra 14 months of service to continue a project working with a research dietician to determine protein needs and protein utilization in injured persons.

During the recent "October War" in the Middle East, Dr. Soroff spent ten weeks in Israel, using his expertise in the treatment of burns and multiple trauma.

At Stony Brook, a major responsibility of the new Chairman, who received his M.D. degree from Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia, will be the recruitment and development of a full time accredited faculty in general surgery and its branches, including cardio-vascular, gastro-intestinal, and thoracic surgery, tumor work, and transplants.

Dr. Soroff will also recruit chairmen for such surgical specialties as orthopedics; ear, nose and throat; neurosurgery; and ophthalmology.

"All the faculty will be involved in developing clinical services for the care of patients, and in providing the milieu for the teaching of students and the development of the surgery curriculum," said the new Chairman, adding that they will also develop a research program in each of these fields.

The Department of Surgery will for the present be based at the Northport Veterans Hospital, one of the University's clinical campuses, but will include the resources of the three other clinical campuses, Brookhaven National Laboratory Medical Department, Nassau County Medical Center, Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center/Queens Hospital Center, and affiliated hospitals. Ground has been broken for the University Hospital, expected to be completed by 1978.

Dr. Soroff is a member of numerous professional societies, including the American College of Surgeons, the International Society for Burn Injuries, the International Cardio-Vascular Society, and the International Society of Transplants. He was a Research Fellow in Surgery at Harvard Medical School; Director of Surgical Research at the New England Medical Center Hospitals; Established Investigator of the American Heart Association; and Attending Physician in Thoracic Surgery at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Boston. He is also the author or co-author of over 100 articles published in professional journals.

THEATRE ARTS' "CHERRY ORCHARD" MARCH 6-16

Chekhov's play "The Cherry Orchard" will be produced by the Theatre Arts Department with 11 performances scheduled for the first two weeks of March.

Directed by Associate Professor of Theatre Arts Thomas Neumiller, this last play by Anton Chekhov presents the story of one generation giving way to another and shows the gradual disintegration of an established set of ideals. Set in Russia just prior to the 1917 Revolution, the theme of the death and rebirth of a people is made universal through the symbolism of a cherry orchard. Prof. Neumiller, commenting on the play's theme said, "Chekhov saw the frustrations of this struggle as comedy, and he reminds us that if tragedy is the stuff of martyrdom, then laughter and humor are the strengths of survival."

"The Cherry Orchard," one of four major productions by the University's Theatre Arts Department this year, will rely on a primarily student cast. Performances are set for the evenings of March 6, 7, 8, 11, 13, 14, 15 at 8 p.m. and March 9 and 16 at 8:30 p.m. One matinee is scheduled for March 16 at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $2 for the general public and $1 for students, and can be reserved in advance by calling 246-5681 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. A limited number of tickets may be available at the door prior to each performance.

Suzanne Mills and Rita Stiff rehearse "Orchard" roles.

MUSEUM ON A SHOESTRING:

Doing an Important Something with Practically Nothing

If your budget is low and you're wondering how to get something done with virtually no money, see Steve Englebright!

Prof. Englebright, lecturer and curator in Earth and Space Sciences, doesn't have any extra funds, but he may be able to offer some inspiration and advice about getting your project moving without money.

The case in point is the new geology museum which is about to be built under Prof. Englebright's direction on the first floor of the Earth and Space Sciences Building. A room has been allocated by the Earth and Space Sciences Department (the large laboratory room adjacent to the first floor elevator bank). The Department has also managed to find an extra $700 in its very restricted budget to cover the cost of some building materials.

Enough to build a museum? No, says Prof. Englebright, but "I'm pretty good with my hands, I've got one dedicated student assistant who's been working on this for a long time and another student starting to help out, and we're hoping to supplement the budget funds with some outside fund raising."

Presently, there's a scale model for the museum and some of the exhibits have been completed through student projects in Geology courses. The museum's exhibit areas will be of a combined modernistic-naturalistic design, utilizing materials ranging from stark white display modules and wall-to-wall carpeting in some areas to rough barn planking, boulders, etc., in others.

The museum won't be completed until some time next year. When done, it will be the only geological museum in Suffolk County. It will function as a museum of Long Island's earth history, offering area relief maps, displays such as a salt marsh diorama, marine specimens and other regional displays.

Richard Morrison, a junior biology major from Huntington, is the student assistant who has been working closely with Prof. Englebright on the museum project for the last two years.

FACULTY RECEIVE GRANTS TOTALING $96,000

Sixty-two faculty members at Stony Brook have been awarded research grants totaling more than $96,000 as part of the State University Research Foundation University Award Series.

Applications for the awards were judged by a faculty committee drawn from all participating State University campuses. Stony Brook faculty received one-seventh of the 589 awards made to faculty at 33 State University campuses.

While the State University

Research Foundation awards are relatively small in dollar value — with a maximum of $3,200 — they play an important role in providing seed money for projects that frequently are funded at a later stage by the federal government or private foundations.

Stony Brook projects funded by the Research Foundation in the current series include Soviet Economic Growth: 1920-1940 by Dr. Barbara Katz, Assistant Professor of Economics; Infrared Observations of Galaxies by Dr.

Roger Knacke, Associate Professor of Astronomy; Imitation and Language Acquisition by Children by Dr. Grover Whithurst, Assistant Professor of Psychology; Studies in Shakespearean Tragedy by Dr. Rose Zimbardo, Associate Professor of English; the Social Systems of Redwing Blackbirds by Dr. Douglas Smith, Assistant Professor of Biology; and a study of the Expansion of the Limits in Bronze Casting by Mr. George Koras, Professor of Art.

Mini-Grant Still Helps, Says Dr. Wilson

"It may not be very large, but it enables us to get started with our data analysis," Dr. Robert L. Wilson of the Marine Sciences Research Center at Stony Brook said of the $315 grant he received for his work on a "Two Layer Model of Circulation in Long Island Sound."

The grant was one of 62 given to Stony Brook faculty as part of the current series of State University Research Foundation University Awards.

Dr. Wilson's project is designed to provide scientists and government agencies with a "predictive model" enabling them to map the flow of pollutants from Hell Gate to Block Island at both surface and sub-surface levels. The model is based on a computer analysis of data on Long Island Sound collected over the past several years by marine scientists at Stony Brook.

MEMO

Two Health Sciences Center women will be the featured guests on Channel 21's "Hello Long Island" program on Thursday, March 7, at 9:00 p.m.

Antoinette Bosco, Associate for Community Affairs, and Mary Grant, secretary, Office of Academic Affairs, will discuss the life style, realities, similarities, and differences in the problems facing "One-Parent Families." Viewers will be able to phone in questions during the telecast and speak with either Ms. Bosco or Ms. Grant.

The two women were selected for the program because they represent families with both older and younger children. Toni Bosco has six children ranging in age from 10 to 23 years, while Mary Grant's children are 4, 5 and 6. Both women are divorced.

LETTERS TO MERCY: A Project in Student-Community Understanding

Mercy Mbu is a freshman from Ogoja, Nigeria, one of the students in this year's International Student Speakers Bureau. Several times a week, members of the Speakers Bureau have been accepting invitations to speak or present programs about their countries at elementary and secondary schools throughout Suffolk County.

Mercy recently was the guest of students and faculty at the Barton Avenue Elementary School in Patchogue. She performed traditional Nigerian rain dances and wedding dances for an assembly in the school auditorium.

Last week, Mercy received some thank you letters from the students — about 30 of them!! Here are some samples (in the original grammar and spelling):

Dear Mercy Mbu, I enjoy you coming to visit. I like the rain dances you showed us. Do they really work? ... Please write back!

Dear Mercy, Do you have any pets? Is your mane transportation car? Do you get married the same way we do?

Dear Mercy, What kind of animals are there. Is there any wild elephants. Are there poisons snakes in Africa.

Dear Mercy, I liked the dance you did. I also liked your language. I wonder how the people where you live feel about war.

Ms. Mbu

Dear Mercy, I though Aferica was a jungle in most parts, but now I thing that there is sivilized villeges. Are there any poisnes monkeys in Nigrirea? I thought Baboons were poiesnes. I heard that gorrilles could kill a man with there grip? You were a good guest speaker!

The International Students Speakers Bureau operates out of the Office of International Student Affairs directed by Mr. Ralph Morrison in Student Affairs. Head of the Speakers Bureau this year is Marina Ho, a senior from Hong Kong.

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE DIRECTOR OF INSTITUTIONAL SERVICES

The planning and organization of an all-campus motor pool and/or commuter bus service is a complex and time consuming project, and the Department of Institutional Services does not have sufficient personnel to handle all the aspects of such a project. However, the Department is voluntarily doing everything it can to assist the University community with the transportation problems caused by the current energy crisis. It has circulated commuter forms throughout the campus so that information may be collected regarding the desirability of car pools and bus routes. A copy of that form appeared on the first page of the February 15 issue of THIS WEEK.

Regarding the costs which will result in the establishment of special bus routes to and from the campus to designated locations in Suffolk and Nassau, the following information should be noted: The estimated cost per person for each one-way ticket will be anywhere from $.63 to $1.25. Example: the estimated cost to commuters who take a special University bus from Huntington to the campus is $1.00 each way. These rates compare favorably with automobile communtation costs when all driver expenses are taken into account.

African Drought Benefit Dance

A BENEFIT DANCE FOR THE AFRICAN DROUGHT (affecting Mauritania, Senegal, Mali, Upper Volta, Niger, Chad, and Ethiopia) will be held in the SB Union Ballroom on Friday, March 1, starting at 10:00 p.m. MANZANITA SOUL AND SIMBA WAJANA will provide the music, plus the disco-sound of DF Scorpio. Tickets: $2 advance, $3 at door. All proceeds will go to "RELIEF FOR AFRICANS IN NEED IN THE SAHEL." The Dance is being sponsored by BLACK STUDENTS AFRICAN DISASTER RELIEF. Phone 6-8004,6,1 for further information.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Library is presently offering a series of workshops designed to enable members of the Stony Brook community to conduct accurate research in particular academic areas. The Workshops are free, and require registration at the Main Reference Desk in advance. For further information, call 6-5976.

YEATS' SON WILL DISCUSS FATHER'S WORK

Your father won a Nobel Prize in Literature, your Uncle Jack was a famous painter; family friends included novelist James Joyce, poets T.S. Eliot and Ezra Pound, playwrights Sean O'Casey and John Synge; your home was at the vortex of the cultural and military revolution that changed your country. What was it like to grow up in such surroundings?

The answer to this and related questions will form the subject of a dialogue between Senator Michael Yeats, whose father William Butler Yeats was described by T.S. Eliot as "the greatest poet in English in the twentieth century," and Dr. Paul Dolan, Associate Professor of English at Stony Brook.

Sponsored by the University's Center for Contemporary Arts and Letters as part of its Perspective in Letters Series, the public dialogue will be held on Monday, March 4, at 8 p.m., in Room 103 of the campus Lecture Center. The public is invited; there is no admission charge.

Senator Yeats, an attorney and member of the Irish Republic Senate, represents his nation in the European Economic Council. He is flying directly from Common Market meetings in Luxemburg to Stony Brook for the dialogue and will return to Europe afterwards. The senator is expected to speak on current Irish problems as well as his father's literary work and his large holding of unpublished manuscript materials of his father.

FACULTY/SENATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ELECTION RESULTS

Faculty/Senate Executive Committee elections were held recently, and Patrick Hill, Associate Professor of Philosophy, Allison Palmer, Professor of Earth and Space Sciences, Irwin Kra, Professor and Acting Provost, Division of Mathematical Sciences, and Estelle James, Professor of Economics, were elected to the Committee. Professor Jones has been named temporary chairman.

TAX FORMS AVAILABLE IN PAYROLL OFFICE

Mr. Carl E. Hanes, Assistant Vice President and Controller, has informed THIS WEEK that state and federal income tax forms are available in the Payroll Office as a service to the employees and students of the University.

The following forms are available:

5. Federal Instruction Booklet for 1040 Forms

The following two booklets are also available:

- A. Instruction Booklet for preparing 1973 Resident New York State Short Form IT-200
B. Resident Instruction Booklet for New York State Income Tax Forms IT-201 and IT-208.

ALUMNI DINNER- DANCE

If you've completed more than half your degree requirements or are a member of the faculty or staff, the Alumni Association would like to have you join the festivities in this spring's Alumni Weekend highlight, a "Speakeasy Night" dinner-dance scheduled Saturday, April 27.

A "Roaring Twenties" theme will predominate at the dinner-dance. Slow and fast dancing and listening music will be provided by the Arvell Shaw Sextet, featuring singer Ruth Brown. The group has gained a wide Stony Brook following through its Open House Day performance last fall and other campus appearances under the auspices of the International Art of Jazz. The band includes former members of the Louis Armstrong All-stars. Ruth Brown, who frequently performs with the band, has won three gold records. The evening's music will range from 70's style rock to re-creations of the rhythms of the Jazz Age of Gatsby, including Ruth Brown's renditions of the great Billie Holiday songs of the era.

Tickets are $14 per couple, $7.50 for singles with the price including a "free lunch" and "bathtub gin." Seniors, faculty and staff members are eligible for tickets at the special rate for active Alumni Association members, $12 per couple, $6.50 for singles. Tickets may be obtained at the Alumni Office, Room 328 in the Administration Building.

snow closings

Come snow, ice or lack of oil, you will be able to find out if the University is open or closed by listening to any of ten LI-NYC radio stations. If the University is closed because of snow or other emergency conditions, the following stations which regularly broadcast snow closing information will be notified. Please don't call the campus; listen to the radio.

The all-news radio stations in New York do not announce closings outside the city.
