Presentation: Fred Gardaphe, Author and Professor of Italian American Studies will talk about his most recent publication, "From Wise Guys to Wise Men: Masculinities and the Italian American Gangster."

In the hands of Italian-American writers, the gangster becomes a telling figure in the tale of American race, gender, and ethnicity. While this figure has been part of American literature since before Fitzgerald's "Great Gatsby", it has only been with the revolution in cinema and the works of Coppola and Scorsese that the image has been humanized and more broadly disseminated. The author investigates the role of the gangster both in film and literature.

Location: Center for Italian Studies, Melville Library, Room E4340.

Books will be available for sale and autographing by the author.

Flavorful Treasures of Ras Baixas, A tasting of tapas and Albarifio wines from the crossroads of cultural traditions in northern Spain. The cool climate of northwestern Spain defines the brilliant flavors and aromas of the region's food and wine. At the intersection of Celtic, Portuguese, and Moorish traditions, since the Middle Ages pilgrims have journeyed to the region, both for Saint James' relics in Santiago de Compostela's famed cathedral and for the blessings of its gastronomic delights. Ninety percent of the regions wines are made by small producers from the Albarifio grape, a variety so aromatic, zesty, and distinctive that it stands up to seafood, hot peppers, and Serrano ham.

This tasting will pair eight wines from leading Ras Baixas producers with a sampling of tapas typical of the region.
