SURVEY MAPS IDENTIFIED + PRESERVED:

David Allen has identified over 300 soil survey maps, very beautiful and quite valuable, that are in need of preservation treatment because they are folded, brittle, and difficult to use. The first batch of these were sent to the Etherington Conservation Center in North Carolina for flattening, deacidification, and encapsulation. They have now been returned to the library. David, Josephine, and Richie invite you to take a look at how nicely the maps have turned out. Examples can be viewed for the next week in the Preservation Dept. We can also show you what an untreated map looks like so you can get a feeling for "before and after." Feel free to drop by any day before 3:30 PM.
